Will History Repeat.

Men who are now thirty or more years of age will remember that in 1892 the country was more prosperous than it had been since the civil war. Then, as now, the tariff was the real issue. The republicans tried then to make people believe that the then existing prosperity would be menaced by democratic victory. But the democrats jeered at the idea that a change of political policy could disturb the business of the country and the people believed them. But the moment it became known that Cleveland was elected, manufacturers, knowing that the tariff would be reduced, began to curtail their operations, because they did not want to have their warehouses filled with high-priced goods when cheaper goods were sure to compete with them; jobbers held their stocks at as low a point as possible for the same reason; retailers bought from hand to mouth, because they expected to be able to buy cheaper as soon as the new law was passed. The booming business of 1892, therefore, collapsed overnight, and you know what followed. Are we not justified in reasoning that the same cause which produced these effects in 1892, will produce like effects in 1912? Are we not justified particularly in suggesting that nothing is likely to be gained along the line of good business conditions by a change, while there is very grave danger that much may be lost? You can maintain the prosperity of today by voting for Taft; a vote for Roosevelt—who cannot possibly be elected—is direct assistance to Wilson; a direct vote for Wilson is for a changed political policy and a possible re-enactment of the conditions following 1892.

Naked Truth.

From the Kansas City Daily Journal.
The republican party was a great and splendid party up to the present year. Every republican was ready to praise its long record of progress and achievement, and defend its good name. It was all right. What has it done this year to offset the glorious record of the past and make it no longer worthy of respect and confidence? Just one thing—it refused to gratify Theodore Roosevelt's ambition for a third term. That one act changed its whole character. It at once became a corrupt tool of bosses and special interests, a "rotten husk" wholly unfit to be entrusted with power. If it had nominated Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago neither he nor his followers would ever have discovered that there was anything wrong with it. They would today be pointing with patriotic pride to its record and policies and to the country's great progress under its wise administration. There is really nothing the matter with the republican party but Roosevelt—and you know it.

The partisans of a favorite leader sometimes willfully deceive themselves. They try to believe they are actuated by high principle when they follow him out of the party, but it is only their offended partisanship for the man that prompts them. In the present instance, thousands of formerly staunch republicans are trying to persuade themselves that the country needs the socialist "reforms" that Roosevelt has gathered up as his platform for lack of something better. But they don't succeed. Deep down in their hearts they know that this crazy-quilt platform is all moonshine and that the only thing really wanted is a third term—a third term and revenge.

But are revenge and a third term really worth sacrificing a great party for? Isn't it paying too high a price for personal partisanship? Really no man should have a third term in the presidency—and you know that. Most of Roosevelt's admirers refused to follow him out of the party, but many have done so. And those who are sticking to him are the hope and dependence and joy of the democrats. Is it worth while to overthrow the old party that you have loved and been so proud of and turn the country over to the democratic rule merely because you are fond of Roosevelt? Will it pay?

The Grand Old Party.

Why should any republican vote for a bull moose candidate for president, who declares his purpose to destroy absolutely the republican party as having ceased to have a mission?

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Harrison and McKinley.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that saved the union, and set 3,000,000 slaves free from bondage.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that fought the Spanish war successfully and drove the Spanish tyrant out of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that restored the nation's credit, and saved the country from free silver repudiation.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that has built up the nation's industries, and protected American labor from pauper competition of foreign lands.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that has written on its statute books nearly all the laws for the amelioration of labor, the control and regulation of menacing corporations, the safeguarding of the public health, the protection of the immigrant, the elevation of moral standards in business and in politics, and the general upbuilding of our citizenship.

Such a vote is a vote to destroy the party that has for over half a century guided the destinies of the nation, and administered the government of more than half of the states, during which time they have enjoyed an unexampled prosperity, and made real progress beyond wildest dreams.

Ask yourself whether the country would gain or lose by the destruction of a party with such a record of achievement.—Omaha Bee.

To Roosevelt Voters.

It is not difficult to vote a straight party ticket next Tuesday. Each voter can do so by simply making a cross in his party circle at the top of the ballot, then his vote will be counted for every nominee of that party. However, the progressive party voters should not forget that each party has not a candidate in our senatorial and representative districts, nor in our county. The progressives have endorsed the republican candidates for United States senator and the state officers. The Progressive voter will miss his vote on state senator, representatives and county ticket in Lincoln county, if he votes the straight progressive ticket unless he makes a mark opposite the names of such candidates on one of the other tickets. This he can do by finding the name of W. V. Hoagland, republican candidate for state senator, Edwin M. Seale, for state representative, Harry Stevens, for representative from Lincoln county, George E. French, republican candidate for county attorney, L. P. Carpenter, republican candidate for county assessor, and I. L. Miltonberger, republican candidate for county commissioner, and also the republican candidates for precinct officers.

It would be better and easier, however, for the man who wants to vote for Roosevelt by making his cross in the republican party circle at the top of the ballot and then one cross in the circle opposite the group of progressive electors. A ballot marked like this will be counted for Roosevelt for president and for all of the balance of the republican state and county ticket, which are the same as the progressive ticket except where no progressive conventions were held.

Does anybody think Roosevelt can carry California, Colorado, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio, and Oklahoma, or any other combination of states that would give him the same number of electoral votes? And yet if he carried all those states, and Taft carried the other states he carried four years ago, Taft would have six more electoral votes than he needs to be elected. Soap-box spouting is one thing, and brass tacks is another.

To the Voters of Lincoln County.

Gentlemen:—Having enjoyed the confidence of your support in the past and believing you will give me credit of making good at all times, and working for the best interests of the taxpayers of the county, I call your attention to the fact that I was named as the republican candidate for county commissioner at the primaries and take this opportunity of saying to you that it will be my earnest effort to render to Lincoln county the best service that I can at all times.

It will be my business on the board of county commissioners, if elected, to carefully guard the interests of all and shall treat all alike, with special privileges for none. The useless expense of the County High Way Commissioner can, in my judgment, be dispensed with without doing injustice to the roads of the county. The county commissioners have ample time to attend to the duties of the above named office in this county and are responsible for the same. If these views meet with your approval I shall appreciate your support.

North Platte, Neb., Oct. 30th, 1912
I. L. MILTONBERGER.

Kind Words.

The St. Mark's Visitor, Omaha Neb., says, among other similar things the following: The Lutheran synod of Nebraska met at North Platte Oct. 9th. It was busily engaged until the 14th. North Platte is a thriving town of 5,000 people, 300 miles from Omaha. The congregation there is one of the best in the synod. The church, the parish house and parsonage occupy a beautiful corner on main street, east and west. Few, if any, of our Omaha pastors are as finely housed as our energetic brother of North Platte. From the number of autos, their appearance and mode of living, the people must have plenty of this world's goods. They are a genial cordial brotherhood and sisterhood, their hospitality is generously bountiful. All the delegates were so fully at home, even "Simon the Tanner," with whom Peter stayed, could scarcely "lodge" them more fraternally. Everybody felt he had about the finest family to stay in. Sumptuously rich in variety and quality were the dinner and suppers served at the well arranged and roomy parish house. The sisters serving there were cheery, happy, full of kindly feeling and delighted to please. The North Platte synod will be kindly remembered.

Studebaker.

The name alone is a guarantee to you in the purchase of an automobile. Nine times out of ten you would buy a Studebaker if full investigation were made, if for no other reason than the Lock Steering Gear which prevents turning turtle. The simplest, most perfect and easiest operated car in existence. Sixty years of business experience are behind the Studebaker car. The greatest car-building facilities in the world are behind the Studebaker car. Once a Studebaker owner a Studebaker enthusiast. Ask any man who owns one.

Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Cor. Willow and West 10th Sts. Regular services each Saturday, Sabbath school 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m., preaching also each Sunday 7 p. m. Subject: "The Sword of the Spirit." What is it? When may it be employed? How may it be effectually wielded? A most cordial invitation is extended to all.
Elder C. H. Miller, Pastor.

It is important that voters who desire to support Congressmen Kinkaid for re-election keep in mind that as his name appears upon only the republican ticket, all who vote other than the republican ticket, in order to vote for Mr. Kinkaid, should place a cross in the square opposite his name, which the statute authorizes may be done.

I have lived in this county and done business with many of you for years, and am no stranger. My record is an open book.

If elected it will be my earnest endeavor to cut out every dollar of wasteful and needless expenditure of the taxpayers' money. A dollar spent must show a dollar in value received. I believe in good roads, permanent bridges as fast as they can be made without hardship on the taxpayers.

If you agree with me and think I can assist in carrying out your wishes, I ask you to assist me on the 5th day of November.

Yours always for business methods and economy.
Yours Respectfully
F. W. HERMINGHAUSEN.
